KAZ GIRLS is an eight-
mini—4½" x
5½"

I lay there on the bed, steaming, not much left of me but cortex and spine. Julie's shredded panties dangled from one of her calloused toes; she absent-mindedly stroked her tattoo and spoke into the air, as if she were addressing some invisible audience: "They'll be wondering where I am back at Billy's; April's been dancing for an hour by now. Can I have my money?" I wished I had a drink, but without a stomach to dump it into or a circulatory system to pump the alcohol to my brain, what good would it do? Damn Vietnam, I thought to myself, Damn Vietnam!

An exquisite selection of cryptomasochistic masterpieces from Hoboken's own KAZ.

IT'S ROMANCE...

IT'S RECIPES...

IT'S EDUCATIONAL... AND IT'S FUN!

HALF-ASSED COMICS Hilarious modern world comics with a desperately gonzo drawing style. My favorite here is "Aunt Mary's Carcinoma Kitchen" about the well-equipped modern housewife's life amongst the atomic appliances. Definitely some warped views of the world here, with punks and monster movies coming in for satire as well.

COMICS & STORIES

If Hubert Selby, Nelson Algren and Kim Deltch had shared a single-room filthy Lower East Side apartment during the particularly grim early '80's, their combined efforts might have resulted in a sublime piece of hopeless misery as gripping as Glenn Head's Avenue D Comics. Whores, junkies, madmen, two-bit pistoleros, inhuman landlords; all the usual suspects are skewered on the tip of Glenn's desperate nib. Attention, New Yorkers: Buy two, and send one to the folks back home.

Yes, my scummy friends, Rayozine has at last developed a surefire method for traveling in time—just hang this 17 1/2" x 22" Scumfest Poster on your wall, and you'll be whisked back to the days of March 1989 when 21 wretched NYC bands were joined together at CBGB's by a handful of skeezy would-be impresarios under the nearly entirely meaningless classification of "Scum Rock."
